

Visa/MasterCard

These days' customers require all vendors to give them a credit card payment option with Visa and MasterCard being at the top of the list of cards consumers have in their wallets. As of December 31, 2008, in the United States, there were more than 668 million Visa-branded cards. Visa cards are accepted at more than 29 million merchant outlets worldwide and 1.4 million ATMs in 200 countries and territories. MasterCard provides services in more than 210 countries and territories. As of December 31, 2008, 981 million MasterCard cards have been issued around the world. Merchants that offer consumers the ability to pay with credit card have an advantage in expanding their customer base, increasing customer satisfaction, and increasing revenue.
